

Latest News

19th April 2011

Crowd-voting opens: You be the judge!

Crowd-voting is now open for the inaugural IFSEC Future of Security Competition. Finalists have prepared 90-second long pitches, available through the OmniCompete website. Everyone is eligible to vote once, but must first register (cost-free) with OmniCompete. Public votes will be accepted until 17th May 2011, and will count towards the final evaluation.

Energy Storage Challenge attracts 100+ entries

The inaugural ESC closed for entries last week, having attracted more than 100 top-quality entries from around the world. Judging will begin shortly and a small number of finalists will be selected to move to the second round. Get in touch if you would still like to sponsor or judge the ESC.

Compete to Innovate report launched

CEO Simon Schneider launched the Compete to Innovate report at the Prize Summit earlier this month. The report, which is now available online, shares ground-breaking statistics that indicate SMEs are overwhelmingly in favour of prize competitions as an innovation tool.

The Prize Summit covered by WSJ Europe

OmniCompete and partners are delighted to share that the Prize Summit held on 8 April was a huge success, with great turnout and strong interest in continuing the discussion in future events. Wall Street Journal Europe and eWeek Europe provided coverage, and a summary of key debates will be available soon.

Global Security Challenge accepting entries

As applications pour in from around the globe, the 6th annual GSC remains open for entrants. At stake is a $500,000 prize fund, high-quality mentorship and the opportunity to join the ranks of past GSC winners including Kromek and mPedigree.

OmniCompete is hiring – join our team!

We're always looking for bright individuals with interesting backgrounds and original ideas to join our team and help us solve the challenges of an international and innovative business. Current openings range from intern to COO – see our website for more details.

TRX Systems awarded $750,000 by DARPA

Congratulations to TRX Systems, 2008 GSC winners, who have just been awarded \$750,000 by DARPA to fund continued expansion of the TRX Sentrix Navigation System, a precise personnel location system.